

MSU Science Festival Announces 2018 Detroit Day

Free, all-ages Expo Day in Detroit on Sunday April 15!

Contact: Carla Hills, University Office of Outreach and Engagement: hillsc@msu.edu;
(517) 353-8977 office, or (517) 881-3009 cell

December 13, 2017

EAST LANSING, Mich. The 6th annual Michigan State University Science Festival has announced its 2018 Detroit Expo Day, Sunday April 15, 2018! All activities are free with something for everyone to explore.

Detroit Expo Day Highlights

- A hands-on flight simulator demonstration with Tuskegee Airmen
- Exploring aquatic animals at the Belle Isle Aquarium
- Interactive Detroit bird exhibit presented by the Detroit Audubon Society
- Examining 150 years of Detroit artifacts with Wayne State University
- And so much more!

The Detroit Expo is one of the 17 days of the MSU Science Festival. The Festival will be held April 6 – 22, 2018 with special events slated across Michigan with a concentration of activities in the Detroit, East Lansing, Kalamazoo, Grand Rapids, and Ann Arbor areas.

More will be announced, including the detailed schedule of events, in the upcoming months.

Additional information can be found online at sciencefestival.msu.edu or the MSU Science Festival Facebook page.

MSU Science Festival Fun Facts:

- The MSU Science Festival is the largest free science festival in Michigan
- The festival attracts over 20,000 attendees per year with 200 unique activities in 40 venues across Michigan.
- Over 63 statewide partners contribute to the festival.
- All statewide and on-campus events are free and open to the public.

#####